CLASS ACTION

DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL

LOEVY & LOEVY
Attorneys at Law

1 Plaintiff Todd Hurvitz, by his attorneys, brings this class action complaint against
2 Defendants Zoom Video Communications, Inc. (“Zoom”), Facebook and LinkedIn
3 Corporation (“LinkedIn”) (collectively, “Defendants”), on behalf of himself and all
4 others similarly situated, and alleges, upon personal knowledge as to his own actions
5 and his counsel’s investigations, and upon information and belief as to all other matters,
6 as follows:
7

8 INTRODUCTION

10 1. Defendant Zoom promotes itself as the “leader in modern enterprise video 11 communications” that “helps businesses and organizations bring their teams together in 12 a frictionless environment to get more done.”

14 2. Zoom also contends that it cares for its users and seeks to deliver 15 happiness. Not so. It recently has been revealed that: (a) Defendants Facebook and 16 LinkedIn eavesdropped on, and otherwise read, attempted to read and learned the 17 contents and meaning of, the communications between Zoom users’ devices and 18 Defendant Zoom’s server; (b) Zoom and LinkedIn disclosed Zoom users’ identities to 19 third parties even when those users actively took steps to keep their identities
20 anonymous while using the Zoom platform; and (c) Zoom falsely represented the 21 safeguards in place to keep users’ video communications private.
22

24
25 3. Indeed, the exploitation of Zoom users began simultaneously with the 26 installation of Zoom’s software application (the “Zoom App”), especially if they used
27
28

1 the iOS operating system – the system to run to Apple products. At that time, and each
2 time thereafter that a Zoom user opened or closed the Zoom App, Defendant Facebook
3 eavesdropped on, and otherwise read, attempted to read and learned the contents and
4 meaning of, communications between Zoom users’ devices and Defendant Zoom’s
5 server without the users’ knowledge or consent.
6

7 4. Facebook engaged in that unlawful conduct in order to gather users’
8 personal information and amass increasingly detailed profiles on Zoom users, which 9 profiles Zoom and Facebook then used for their respective financial benefit.
10

11 5. Similarly, Defendant LinkedIn eavesdropped on, and otherwise read, 12 attempted to read and learned the contents and meaning of, communications between 13 Zoom users’ devices and Defendant Zoom’s server, in order to harvest users’ personal
14 information. Further, Zoom and LinkedIn surreptitiously provided certain Zoom users
15 with the personal information of other users even when the victim users proactively
16 took steps to hide their identities.

18 6. Additionally, Defendant Zoom has misrepresented the nature of the 19 security used to protect Zoom users’ video communications. It has also concealed,
20 suppressed and omitted from disclosure various flaws in its products until they are 21 publicly disclosed by third parties, knowing that the disclosures could harm its business.
22

23 7. Plaintiff brings this action for monetary, declaratory and injunctive relief
24 in order to: (a) require Defendants to provide compensation for their unlawful, unfair
25
26
27
28

1 and deceptive conduct; (b) require Defendants to disgorge their ill-gotten gains; and (c)
2 prevent and preclude Defendants from engaging in similar conduct in the future.

3 PARTIES

4
5 8. Plaintiff Todd Hurvitz is a California resident, residing in the Central
6 District of California.

7
8 9. Defendant Zoom is a Delaware corporation, with its corporate
9 headquarters in San Jose, California. As of January 31, 2020, Zoom reported quarterly
10 revenue of $188 million and fiscal year revenue of $623 million. As of December 2019,
11 the maximum number of Zoom meeting participants on a given day totaled 10 million.
12 As of late March 2020, the number had grown to 200 million participants.

14 10. Defendant Facebook is a Delaware corporation, with its corporate 15 headquarters in Menlo Park, California. Facebook's 2019 revenue totaled
16 approximately $71 billion. Moreover, as of December 2019, Facebook averaged 2.50
17 billion monthly active users. According to a recent filing with the United States
18 Security and Exchange Commission: (a) Facebook is a social network that generates
19 substantially all of its revenue from selling advertising placements to marketers; (b)
20 Facebook ads allow marketers to reach people based on various factors including age,
21 gender, behaviors, location and interests; and (c) Facebook's advertising revenue
22 depends on "targeting and measurement tools that incorporates data signals from user 23 activity on websites."
24
25
26
27
28

11. Defendant LinkedIn is a Delaware subsidiary of Microsoft Corporation (“Microsoft”), with its corporate headquarters in Sunnyvale, California. According to Microsoft’s 2019 Annual Report, LinkedIn is the “world’s largest professional network on the Internet” with revenue totaling $5.3 billion. Among the products offered by LinkedIn at relevant times was LinkedIn Sales Navigator (“Navigator”), a sales tool that provided automated targeting of prospective customers. The minimum annual fee for access to Navigator was $780.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

14. Venue is proper under 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b)(2) because a substantial part of the acts or omissions giving rise to the claims alleged herein occurred in the Central District of California. Alternatively, venue is proper under 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b)(3) because this Court has personal jurisdiction over Defendants.

FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

Zoom's Business and Business Risk Factors

15. According to Defendant Zoom's March 2019 Form S-1 Registration Statement (the "S-1")¹:

- a. "Video has increasingly become the way that individuals want to communicate in the workplace and their daily lives," and online/cloud video communications represents a $43.1 billion opportunity in 2022;
- b. Zoom was a "video-first communications platform that delivers happiness and fundamentally changes how people interact by connecting them through frictionless video, voice, chat and content sharing";
- c. Zoom's cornerstone product was Zoom Meetings, which provided "HD video, voice, chat and content sharing across mobile devices, desktops, laptops, telephones and conference room systems";
- d. Zoom's business was subject to numerous risk factors;
- e. Zoom recognized that a decline in new users and hosts or in renewals of upgrades from free service to paid subscriptions would

1 hurt Defendant Zoom’s business: “Any decrease in user satisfaction
2 with our products or support would harm our brand, word-of-mouth
3 referrals and ability to grow”;

4
5 16. At relevant times, it was critical to Defendant Zoom’s business plan that it
6 limit bad or negative news regarding its data security and confidentiality practices.

7
8 17. According to Defendant Zoom:

9 Any failure or perceived failure by us to comply with our
10 privacy-, data protection- or information security-related
11 obligations to users or other third parties or any of our other legal 12 obligations relating to privacy, data protection or information
13 security may result in governmental investigations or 14 enforcement actions, litigation, claims or public statements
15 against us by consumer advocacy groups or others, and could 16 result in significant liability or cause our users to lose trust in us, 17 which could have an adverse effect on our reputation and 18 business.²

19 18. Similarly, recognizing its past inability to keep its users’ data secure,
20 Defendant Zoom has acknowledged that “[c]oncerns regarding privacy, data protection 21 and information security may cause some of our users and hosts to stop using our 22 solutions and fail to renew their subscriptions. This discontinuance in use or failure to 23 renew could substantially harm our business.”³

24 19. Defendant Zoom has further conceded that “failures to meet customers’
25 and hosts’ expectations with respect to security and confidentiality of their data and 26 ² Id.

27 ³ Id.

1 information could damage our reputation and affect our ability to retain customers and
2 hosts, attract new customers and hosts and grow our business.”⁴

3 Defendant Zoom’s Misrepresentations Regarding Data Privacy and Security

4
5 20. Defendant Zoom has consistently represented that it did not allow third
6 parties access to any personal data Zoom collected in the course of providing services
7 to customers. In fact, as alleged in more detail below, Zoom allowed third parties to 8 access such data.
9

10 21. Further, at relevant times, Defendant Zoom represented that it took 11 security seriously and protected users’ data by allowing all shared content to be 12 encrypted using Advanced Encryption Standard (“AES”)-256 encryption.

14 22. AES is a standard for encrypting data.

15 23. Contrary to Defendant Zoom’s representations, Zoom did not protect 16 users’ data using either AES-256. Rather, Zoom used weaker data protection methods
17 that exposed users to security hazards.
18

19 Defendants’ History of Lax Security and Data Privacy Practices

20 Defendant Zoom

21
22 24. Defendant Zoom has a long history of lax security practices and deceptive
23 data privacy practices.
24
25
26

27 ⁴ Id.

1 25. Indeed, in its S-1, Defendant Zoom conceded that “security incidents have
2 occurred in the past and may occur in the future”⁵

3 26. In numerous instances, Defendant Zoom has claimed to not have become 4 aware of its failure to properly secure users’ personal information or its failure to adhere
5 to its own privacy practices until it received notification from third parties.
6

7 27. In July 2018, it was revealed that a flaw in Zoom Meetings “could result
8 in potential exposure of a Zoom user’s password.”⁶
9

10 28. On October 11, 2018, a cybersecurity company notified Defendant Zoom
11 of a software defect that “allows attackers to hijack control of presenters’ desktops,
12 spoof chat messages, and kick attendees out of Zoom calls.”⁷
13

14 29. Defendant Zoom did not publicly release a fix to the October 2018
15 vulnerability until late November 2018.
16

17 30. In March 2019, a software engineer notified Defendant Zoom of a security 18 defect that exposed millions of users to an attack whereby a hacker could access their
19 computers’ cameras and microphones and initiate a video-enabled call on a Mac
20 without user consent. Further research revealed that if a user tried to remedy the defect

1 by uninstalling the Zoom App on his device, Zoom would surreptitiously reinstall it –
 2 thereby, again, leaving the user exposed to the security vulnerability.

3 31. The engineer who discovered the March 2019 defect rated its severity as 4 8.5 out of 10.⁸

5
 6 32. Rather than immediately remedying the defect, Defendant Zoom released
 7 a fix for an unrelated defect.

8
 9 33. Defendant Zoom waited almost four months before releasing a fix for the 10 major defect and did so only after a complaint was filed with the Federal Trade
 11 Commission (the “FTC”) by a privacy advocacy organization.

12
 13 Defendant Facebook

14 34. Defendant Facebook has a long history of lax security practices and 15 deceptive data privacy practices, as exemplified by the allegations below:

16
 17 35. In 2011, a researcher disclosed that Defendant Facebook covertly tracked
 18 the websites Facebook users visited when users were logged out of Facebook.
 19 Facebook began engaging in the conduct in April 2010 and did not cease doing so until 20 the Wall Street Journal published the researcher’s findings in September 2011.

 22 36. In 2012, the FTC charged Defendant Facebook with eight separate 23 privacy-related violations, including that Facebook made misrepresentations regarding 24 users’ ability to control the privacy of their personal data. In response, Facebook agreed
 25

26
 27 ⁸ Id.

1 to change its privacy practices. However, Facebook breached its agreement with the
2 FTC, resulting in the FTC imposing a record-setting $5 billion penalty against Facebook
3 in 2019.

5 37. In 2015, Defendant Facebook was sued for violating the Illinois Biometric
6 Information Privacy Act, 740 ILCS § 14/1, et seq., as a result of a facial recognition
7 feature that tagged people's photos. In January 2020, Facebook settled the matter for 8 $550 million.

10 38. In 2018, hackers exploited a vulnerability in Defendant Facebook's code
11 and stole personal information of approximately 29 million Facebook users. Facebook
12 has agreed to settle a consolidated class action arising out of the data breach. As part
13 of the settlement, Facebook has agreed to implement improved security practices.

14
15 Defendant LinkedIn

16
17 39. Defendant LinkedIn also has long a history of lax security practices and 18 deceptive data privacy practices.

19
20 40. In 2010, Defendant LinkedIn experienced a data breach in which a hacker
21 obtained the passwords of approximately 6.5 million users. According to reports,
22 LinkedIn failed to store the passwords in a secure manner. LinkedIn settled the matter
23 for $1.25 million.

24
25 41. Between September 2011 and October 31, 2014, Defendant LinkedIn
26 imported contacts from users' external email contacts and then repeatedly emailed those 27

1 contacts without obtaining consent to use the users' names and likenesses. LinkedIn
2 settled the matter for $13 million.

3 42. In November 2018, Ireland's Data Protection Commissioner found that
4 Defendant LinkedIn obtained the email addresses of 18 million non-members and then
5 targeted those non-members with Facebook advertisements without their consent.
6 LinkedIn subsequently agreed to cease engaging in the conduct.
7

8
9 The Unlawful Collection and Distribution of Users' Personal Information

10 Defendants Zoom and LinkedIn

11 43. To enhance the "Zoom experience," Defendant Zoom offered users the 12 ability to integrate third-party software applications ("app" or "apps") into the Zoom
13 platform.
14

15 44. One such app was Navigator. According to Defendant Zoom's App
16 Marketplace: (a) "[w]ith Zoom's LinkedIn Sales Navigator integration, you'll build 17 connections and instantly gain insights about your meeting participants"; and (b) with 18 LinkedIn Sales Navigator enabled, a person using the app "will be able to view
19 LinkedIn details of . . . meeting participants"
21

22 45. According to Defendant LinkedIn's website, a salesperson using 23 Navigator could "[t]arget the right buyers, understand key insights, and engage with 24 personalized outreach."
25
26
27
28

1 46. At relevant times, a person hosting a Zoom video meeting while utilizing
2 the Navigator app was able to view LinkedIn details of meeting participants, even when
3 those participants sought to keep their personal details anonymous.
4

5 47. Defendant LinkedIn gained the ability to provide a meeting host with 6 meeting participants' LinkedIn details by willfully and intentionally using a recording 7 device to record and eavesdrop on, and by otherwise reading, attempting to read and 8 learning the contents and meaning of, communications between the participants'
9 computers and Defendant Zoom's server while the same were in transit and passing
10 over any wire, line or cable and were being sent from and received within the State of 11 California. LinkedIn engaged in this conduct in an unauthorized manner and without 12 the meeting participants' knowledge or consent. The meeting participants had a 13 reasonable expectation of privacy in the communications and reasonably believed the 14 communications were confidential.
15
16
17

18 48. The personal information LinkedIn learned from the above-described 19 eavesdropping activities included participants' persistent identifiers and other details
20 that allowed LinkedIn to identify the participants by name and LinkedIn profile, even 21 when the participants sought to keep their identities anonymous.
22

23 49. On information and belief, Defendant LinkedIn was able to collect Zoom
24 users' personal information even if the meeting host was not using Navigator, thereby
25
26
27
28

1 allowing LinkedIn to learn the contents of all sign-in communications of all Zoom
2 users.

3 50. Defendant Zoom has admitted that Navigator allowed for unnecessary data
4 disclosure to Defendant LinkedIn.

5
6 51. While Zoom had various privacy policies in effect at various times, the 7 unnecessary data disclosure violated each of those policies.

8
9 52. None of Defendant Zoom's privacy policies disclosed that Defendant
10 LinkedIn was able to obtain users' personal information in the manner alleged above.

11 53. Similarly, at no time did Defendant LinkedIn disclose to Zoom users that 12 it collected their personal information from Defendant Zoom.

13
14 54. On information and belief, Defendants Zoom and LinkedIn unjustly
15 enriched themselves through Zoom's disclosure of Zoom users' personal information
16 to LinkedIn by, among other ways, increasing sales of Navigator and increasing the 17 number of total Zoom users and the number of Zoom users who paid for Zoom's
18 services.
19

20
21 Defendants Zoom and Facebook

22 55. At relevant times, Defendant Zoom allowed users of Apple's iOS
23 operating system to access Zoom's platform via a "Login with Facebook" feature (the 24 "iOS Login Feature"). The iOS Login Feature utilized a Facebook software
25 development kit ("SDK") to function.
26
27
28

1 56. Via the iOS Login Feature, Defendant Facebook could, among other things
2 surreptitiously collect personal information about Zoom users – even users who did not
3 have a Facebook account and did not use the iOS Login Feature.
4

5 57. Defendant Facebook collected the personal information by willfully and
6 intentionally using a recording device to record and eavesdrop on, and by otherwise
7 reading, attempting to read and learning the contents and meaning of, communications
8 between the participants’ computers and Defendant Zoom’s server while the same were 9 in transit and passing over any wire, line or cable and were being sent from and received
10 within the State of California. Facebook engaged in this conduct in an unauthorized
11 manner and without the meeting participants’ knowledge or consent. The meeting 12 participants had a reasonable expectation of privacy in the communications and 13 reasonably believed the communications were confidential.
14

15 58. Defendant Facebook’s collection of Zoom users’ personal information
16 allowed Facebook to amass increasingly detailed profiles on users for use in its targeted 17 advertising business. Those profiles helped Defendant Zoom profit by being able to 18 more accurately target users for additional services and to convert them to paying 19 customers.
20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28

1 59. The personal information Defendant Facebook learned about users
2 included their:

- 3 a. iOS Advertiser ID;
- 4 b. iOS Timezone;
- 5 c. IP Address;
- 6 d. iOS Language;
- 7 e. iOS Disk Space Available;
- 8 f. iOS Disk Space Remaining;
- 9 g. iOS Device Model;
- 10 h. iOS Version;
- 11 i. Device Carrier;
- 12 j. iOS Device CPU Cores;
- 13 k. Application Bundle Identifier;
- 14 l. Application Instance ID; and
- 15 m. Application Version.

16
17
18
19
20
21 60. A Zoom user's iOS Advertiser ID is known as a persistent identifier and 22 is particularly sensitive because it is specifically assigned to the user and could be
23 tracked over time, across platforms and linked to the user. In isolation, a persistent 24 identifier is merely a string of numbers used to identify an individual. However, when 25 linked to other data points about the same user – such as the data points described above
26
27
28

1 – a persistent identifier reveals a personal profile that data collectors like Defendant
2 Facebook can exploit.

3 61. The FTC has described the way in which a company like Defendant
4 Facebook can use a persistent identifier in conjunction with other data points to amass
5 a valuable profile on an individual:
6

7 [In a recent survey], one ad network received information from 8 31 different apps. Two of these apps transmitted geolocation to 9 the ad network along with a device identifier [a type of persistent 10 identifier], and the other 29 apps transmitted other data (such as 11 app name, device configuration details, and the time and duration
12 of use) in connection with a device ID. The ad network could 13 thus link the geolocation information obtained through the two
14 apps to all the other data collected through the other 29 apps
15 by matching the unique, persistent device ID.⁹

16 62. Defendant Facebook's surreptitious collection of the personal information
17 described above allowed it to amass increasingly detailed profiles on Zoom users
18 showing how, when and why they used Zoom, along with other inferences that could 19 be drawn therefrom.

20 63. Indeed, by obtaining a Zoom user's iOS Advertiser ID, along with the 21 other information described above, Defendant Facebook was able to identify the 22 specific user and amass the data collected from Defendant Zoom with other data
23

28

1 previously collected by Facebook, giving Facebook multiple ways to identify the user
2 even if he took steps to keep his identity anonymous.

3 64. Moreover, the combination of the iOS Advertiser ID and the other data
4 described above better allowed Defendant Facebook to deanonymize a user's data and
5 reidentify the user. This is significant because many companies contend that they only
6 share, sell or use personal information in an aggregate and/or anonymized format. By 7 obtaining the iOS Advertiser ID, along with the other personal information described
8 above, Defendant Facebook could render the concept of anonymized data a nullity.¹⁰
9

10 65. Defendant Zoom has admitted that the data collection conducted via the 11 Login with Facebook feature was unnecessary to the provision of Defendant Zoom's
12 services to users.
13

14 66. While Zoom had various privacy policies in effect at various times, the 15 unnecessary data disclosure violated each of those policies.
16

17 67. None of Defendant Zoom's privacy policies disclosed that Defendant
18 Facebook was able to obtain users' personal information in the manner alleged above.
19

20 68. Similarly, at no time did Defendant Facebook disclose to Zoom users that
21 it collected their personal information from Defendant Zoom.

28 accessed on Apr. 11, 2020) (discussing reidentification of anonymized data).

69. On information and belief, Defendants Zoom and Facebook unjustly enriched themselves through Zoom's disclosure of Zoom users' personal information to Facebook by, among other ways: (a) allowing them to amass more detailed profiles on users; (b) allowing Facebook to increase its advertising business by marketing its ability to target advertisements based on its detailed personal profiles; and (c) allowing Zoom to more specifically target advertisements for its paid services and, thereby, generate revenues.

Defendant Zoom's Misrepresentations Regarding Its Security Practices

70. As alleged above, Defendant Zoom represented that it allowed all shared content to be encrypted using AES-256 encryption.

71. In fact, Defendant Zoom utilized AES-128 encryption, an inferior form of encryption than AES-256.

72. Moreover, Defendant Zoom utilized its AES-128 encryption in ECB mode, which is not recommended by security experts because patterns visible in plaintext are preserved during encryption.¹¹ As a result, a viewer of the patterns can see and decipher the outlines of the encrypted information, as depicted in the images below:

*Original ImageEncrypted using ECB Mode¹²*The Market for Data

73. Several online companies allow individuals to sell their own data online.

74. One such company estimates that an individual can earn up $2,000 per year selling his data.

75. By unlawfully collecting, distributing and using Zoom users' data, Defendants diminished the value of the data and unjustly enriched themselves.

Allegations Related to Plaintiff

76. At relevant times, the Zoom App was installed on Plaintiff Hurvitz's iPhone and Mac computer, both of which used the iOS operating system, and he used the Zoom App and Zoom's video communications services via those devices. Plaintiff used the Zoom App and Zoom's video communications services from his residence and other places located within the Central District of California.

¹² Id.

1 77. Plaintiff Hurvitz did not consent to Defendants Facebook and LinkedIn
2 eavesdropping and otherwise reading and learning the contents of his devices'
3 communications with Defendant Zoom's servers.

4 78. Plaintiff Hurvitz did not consent to Zoom collecting, disclosing and using
5 his personal information for unlawful purposes and purposes not disclosed in its privacy
6 policies.
7

8 79. Plaintiff Hurvitz did not consent to the installation of code on his devices
9 that served to benefit collection of his personal information by Defendants Facebook
10 and LinkedIn.
11

12 80. Plaintiff did not have knowledge of Defendants' conduct with respect to 13 his data, as alleged herein.
14

15 Plaintiff's and Class Members' Injuries and Damages
16

17 81. As a result of Defendants' conduct, Plaintiff and Class Members have 18 suffered and will continue to suffer severe consequences, as Defendants' conduct has,
19 among other things:
20

- 21 a. Diminished the value of the personal information of Plaintiff and 22 Class Members;
23 b. Invaded Plaintiff's and Class Members' privacy;
24 c. Deprived Plaintiff and Class Members of the ability to control the 25 sale of their personal information;
26
27
28

- d. Deprived Plaintiff and Class Members of their right to control and to choose how to use their identities for commercial purposes;
- e. Inhibited the ability of Plaintiff and Class Members to control the information third parties receive about them;
- f. Trespassed upon Plaintiff's and Class Members' devices on which the Zoom App was installed; and
- g. Precluded Plaintiff and Class Members from conditioning Defendants' use of their personal information on an agreement to provide Plaintiff and Class Members with a portion of the proceeds.

82. Defendants' wrongful actions have directly and proximately caused Plaintiff and Class Members to face the immediate and continuing increased risk of economic damages and other actual harm for which they are entitled to compensation, including, among others:

- a. Damages to, and diminution in the value of, the personal information Defendants' collected, distributed and used;
- b. Costs associated with reviewing and trying to stop unwanted advertisements and solicitations, such as time taken from the enjoyment of one's life, and the inconvenience, nuisance, cost and annoyance of dealing with the unwanted solicitations; and
- c. The loss of Plaintiff's and Class Members' privacy.

Fraudulent Concealment and Tolling

83. The applicable statutes of limitations are tolled by virtue of Defendants' knowing and active concealment of the facts alleged above. Plaintiff and Class Members were ignorant of the information essential to the pursuit of these claims, without any fault or lack of diligence on their part.

84. Defendants' fraudulent concealment is common to the Class and Subclasses

CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

85. Plaintiff brings this action on behalf of himself as a class action under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23, seeking damages and equitable relief on behalf of the following nationwide Class for which Plaintiff seeks certification:

All persons and businesses in the United States whose personal or private information was unlawfully collected, disclosed and/or used by Zoom, Facebook and/or LinkedIn upon the installation, opening, closing or use of the Zoom App (the "Nationwide Class").

86. Additionally, Plaintiff brings this action on behalf of the following subclass of individuals seeking damages and relief:

All persons and businesses in the States of Alabama, Alaska, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia, Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Minnesota, Missouri, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Washington and West

1 Virginia whose personal or private information was
 2 unlawfully collected, disclosed and/or used by Zoom,
 3 Facebook and/or LinkedIn upon the installation, opening,
 4 closing or use of the Zoom App (the “Intrusion Upon Seclusion Subclass”).

5 87. Additionally, Plaintiff brings this action on behalf of a California subclass
 6 seeking damages and equitable relief on behalf of the following:

7 All persons and businesses in the State of California whose
 8 personal or private information was unlawfully collected,
 9 disclosed and/or used by Zoom, Facebook and/or LinkedIn
 10 upon the installation, opening, closing or use of the Zoom
 App (the “California Subclass”).

11 88. Excluded from the Classes are: (a) Defendants Zoom, Facebook and 12 LinkedIn; (b) any parent, affiliate or subsidiary of Zoom, Facebook and LinkedIn; (c)
 13 any entity in which Zoom, Facebook and LinkedIn has a controlling interest; (d) any of 14 Zoom’s, Facebook’s or LinkedIn’s officers or directors; or (e) any successor or assign
 15 of Zoom, Facebook or LinkedIn. Also excluded are any judge or court personnel
 16 assigned to this case and members of their immediate families.
 17

18 89. Plaintiff reserves the right to amend or modify the class definitions with 19 greater specificity or division after having had an opportunity to conduct discovery.
 20

21 90. Numerosity. Consistent with Rule 23(a)(1), the Class and Subclasses
 22 (collectively, the “Classes”) are so numerous that joinder of all members is 23 impracticable. While Plaintiff does not know the exact number of members of the 24 Classes, the Nationwide Class contains millions of people. Class Members may be 25
 26
 27
 28

1 identified through objective means, including objective data available to Defendants
2 regarding whose data they unlawfully collected, disclosed and/or used. Class Members
3 may be notified of the pendency of this action by recognized, Court-approved notice
4 dissemination methods, which may include U.S. mail, electronic mail, internet postings,
5 social media and/or published notice. All members of the various classes are readily
6 ascertainable because Defendants have access to information regarding the identity of 7 each Zoom user whose data is at issue.
8
9

10 91. Commonality and predominance. Common questions of law and fact
11 exist as to all Class Members. These common questions of law or fact predominate
12 over any questions affecting only individual members of the Classes. Common
13 questions include, but are not limited to the following:
14

- 15 a. Whether Defendants engaged in wrongful conduct as alleged herein;
- 16 b. Whether Defendant Zoom improperly collected, disclosed and used 17 the personal information of Plaintiff and Class Members;
- 18 c. Whether Defendants Facebook and LinkedIn intentionally and 19 without the necessary consents used a recording device to eavesdrop
20 upon and record the confidential communications between 21 Plaintiff's and Class Members' devices, on the one hand, and 22 Defendant Zoom's server on the other.
23
24
25
26
27
28

- 1 d. Whether Defendants Facebook and LinkedIn willfully and without
2 the necessary consents, in an unauthorized manner read, attempted
3 to read and learned the contents and meaning of communications
4 between Plaintiff's and Class Members' devices and Defendant
5 Zoom's servers;
6
7 e. Whether Defendant Zoom misrepresented to Plaintiff and Class
8 Members the type of data encryption it utilized;
9
10 f. Whether Defendant Zoom misrepresented their data disclosure
11 practices to Plaintiff and Class Members;
12
13 g. Whether Defendants obtained the personal information of Plaintiff
14 and Class Members under false pretenses;
15
16 h. Whether Defendants invaded Plaintiff's and Class Members'
17 privacy;
18
19 i. Whether Defendants engaged in unfair or deceptive trade practices
20 by failing to disclose the true nature of how they collected, disclosed
21 and/or used Plaintiff's and Class Members' personal information;
22
23 j. Whether Defendant Zoom concealed data security flaws and its lax
24 practices with respect to Plaintiff's and Class Members' personal
25 information in order to prevent negative news from negatively
26 impacting its business;
27
28

- 1 k. Whether Plaintiff and Class Members suffered damages as a
2 proximate result of Defendants' conduct;
3
4 l. Whether Defendants unjustly enriched themselves through their 5 unlawful conduct; and
6
7 m. Whether Plaintiff and Class Members are entitled to damages,
8 equitable relief and other relief.

9 92. Typicality. Plaintiff's claims are typical of the claims of the Classes he 10 seeks to represent because Plaintiff and all members of the proposed Classes have 11 suffered similar injuries as a result of the same practices alleged herein. Plaintiff has 12 no interests to advance adverse to the interests of the other members of the Classes.

14 93. Adequacy. Plaintiff will fairly and adequately protect the interests of 15 Classes and has retained as his counsel attorneys experienced in class actions and 16 complex litigation.
17

18 94. Superiority. A class action is superior to other available means for the 19 fair and efficient adjudication of this dispute. The injury suffered by each Class
20 Member, while meaningful on an individual basis, is not of such magnitude as to make 21 the prosecution of individual actions against Defendants economically feasible. Even 22 if Class Members could afford individual litigation, those actions would put 23 immeasurable strain on the court system. Moreover, individual litigation of the legal 24 and factual issues of the case would increase the delay and expense to all parties and 25
26
27
28

1 the court system. A class action, however, presents far fewer management difficulties
2 and provides the benefit of single adjudication, economy of scale and comprehensive
3 supervision by a single court.
4

5 95. In the alternative, the proposed classes may be certified because:

- 6 a. The prosecution of separate actions by each individual member of 7 the Classes would create a risk of inconsistent adjudications, which
8 could establish incompatible standards of conduct for Defendants;
9
10 b. The prosecution of individual actions could result in adjudications 11 that as a practical matter would be dispositive of the interests of non-12 party Class Members or which would substantially impair their 13 ability to protect their interests; and 14
15 c. Defendants acted or refused to act on grounds generally applicable
16 to the proposed classes, thereby making final and injunctive relief
17 appropriate with respect to members of the Classes.
18

19 96. Pursuant to Rule 23(c)(4) particular issues are appropriate for certification
20 – namely the issues described in paragraph 91, above, because resolution of such issues
21 would advance the disposition of the matter and the parties’ interests therein.

216. Defendant Zoom is a business under the CCPA. See Cal. Civ. Code § 1798.140(c).

1 217. As alleged herein, in violation of the CCPA, Defendant Zoom collected
2 Plaintiff and Class Members' personal information but failed to provide Plaintiff and 3 Class Members with the information required by the CCPA, namely, Zoom failed to 4 accurately inform Plaintiff and Class Members as to the categories of personal
5 information to be collected and the purposes for which the categories of personal
6 information were to be used.
7

8 218. As alleged herein, Defendant Zoom further violated the CCPA by using 9 the personal information it collected from Plaintiff and Class Members for undisclosed
10 purposes without providing the requisite notice.
11

12 219. With respect to Defendant Zoom's violation of § 5 of the FTC Act, the 13 FTC has brought numerous actions against businesses for their unfair and deceptive
14 practices in harvesting personal information from a software application.
15

16 220. At relevant times, Defendant Zoom knew of its obligations to act fairly
17 and honestly in its business dealings and not to violate § 5 of the FTC Act.
18

19 221. Defendant Zoom's conduct with respect to Plaintiff's and Class Members'
20 personal information constituted an unfair and deceptive practice in violation of § 5 of 21 the FTC Act.
22

23 222. Defendant Zoom's above-described conduct constituted unfair practices in 24 violation of the UCL because the practices and acts: (a) were immoral, unethical,
25 oppressive, unscrupulous and substantially injurious to Plaintiff and Class Members;
26

1 and (b) violated established public policy. These acts caused substantial injury to
2 Plaintiff and Class Members; this substantial injury outweighed any benefits to
3 competition or the purpose of such conduct, and there were reasonably available
4 alternatives to further Zoom's legitimate business interests.
5

6 223. By collecting, disclosing and using Plaintiff's and Class Members'
7 personal information in ways that Plaintiff and Class Members did not know of or 8 consent to, Defendant Zoom engaged in fraudulent business practices that were likely 9 to deceive a reasonable consumer.
10

11 224. A reasonable person would not have agreed to use the Zoom App had 12 Defendant Zoom not concealed, omitted and suppressed the truth about its practices, as 13 alleged herein. By withholding material information about its practices, Zoom deceived
14 customers into using its products and platform and to entrust their personal information
15 to Zoom. Accordingly, Zoom's conduct also was fraudulent within the meaning of the 16 UCL.

18 225. As a result of Defendant Zoom's violations of the UCL, Plaintiff and Class
19 Members have suffered an injury-in-fact and have lost money and property. Plaintiff
20 and Class Members are entitled to restitution and disgorgement, declaratory and other
21 equitable relief.

Defendant Zoom’s wrongful conduct will continue to cause great and irreparable injury to Plaintiff and Class Members in that Zoom and others can continue to: (a) use the unlawfully obtained personal information to Plaintiff’s and Class Members’ detriment. Plaintiff and Class Members have no adequate remedy at law for the injuries in that a judgment for monetary damages will not end the invasion of privacy for Plaintiff and Class Members or require Zoom to retrieve the personal information from the unauthorized entities to which it was disclosed.
